A recent trend in the market and among the users has been an enormous reliance and focus on "experience" or "the user experience" (UX). Most products or services are now designed with the user's experience in mind and they should do their best to meet its expectations. One can easily see the increasing trend of UX across a variety of industries. In the digital arena, although many designs and applications start with an emphasis on "function" or "functionality," they are often forgotten and abandoned once the product has been deployed. In short, a lot of websites miss the point in terms of their user experience and then the users stop coming back to them. The creation of a really great user experience is one of the best things a company can do for itself, because it's the user who matters, not the company. When a user feels positive about the design, the company's efforts at user interface design will pay off enormously.
